"A unique wing house conversion within the imposing original manor."

Central to the stunning development at The Lodge is the original imposing 1914 manor, converted into 3 luxury houses and 5 apartments.

Fastolf House is the last remaining wing house blending the elegance and grandeur of the manor's impressive proportions with the comfort of a new home.

The signature style of Hidden Talents Homes is all about indulgent luxury and Fastolf House epitomises this.

At the heart of the house is the superb kitchen/dining room with shaker style kitchen, antique mirrored splash back and quartz worksurfaces. The superb original bay window frames the space and provides a wonderful recess for dining.

The space within Fastolf House works perfectly to entertain family and friends, but also feels cosy when relaxing alone. There is a large utility room with additional understairs cupboard and a separate cloakroom.

The inner hall has a door to the front but also leads to the elegant sitting room, with a substantial original south-facing window overlooking the garden and woodland beyond. With the bespoke media unit this room perfectly fuses grandeur with modern living.

The first floor has been cleverly designed to give the utmost versatility. The principal suite feels indulgent and has beautiful views over the woodland. There are fitted wardrobes which Hidden Talents Homes include as standard. There is also a luxury en-suite with substantial shower. There are two further double bedrooms and panelling has been installed to one of the rooms to pay homage to the traditional character of the building.

“...elegant sitting room, with a substantial original south-facing window overlooking the garden and woodland beyond.”

One of the special features of The Lodge is the attention to detail paid to the private outside spaces. With a large paved terrace for entertaining and new brick walls with estate railings and a gate to the 10 acres of woodland grounds.

Fastolf House is perfectly placed for those who enjoy outside space on a manageable scale. There is allocated parking by the front door.
